DESCRIPTION

This collection comprises the second - and ongoing - arrangement of the National Collegiate Honors Council archives. The first section includes 40 boxes of material and is inventoried by box. This arrangement is exclusive of those earlier materials, but items may overlap chronologically or even duplicate, since no attempt was made to integrate the two sections. Section 2 should serve as an expanding collection of the N.C.H.C. archives, as materials are continually received and filed.

The first section of this collection (boxes 1-27) is an alphabetical arrangement of materials important in their own right - independent of the chronology. These include publications of N.C.H.C. which are ongoing and space has been left to add future copies. Forum for Honors, the National Honors Report (which replaced the Newsletter in 1985) and regional newsletters are arranged here. Boxes 6 and 7 contain journals, literary or non-fiction, published by honors programs at member institutions.

Boxes 19 and 20 contain the most sought-after materials. A few of these monographs comprised a "Starter Packet" for interested colleges and universities which could be ordered from the executive secretary. Since these copies are the few remaining of those printed, schools now solicit photocopies from this archive.

The materials in the first 27 boxes are generally specific to institutions or regional councils. Their arrangement together precluded a chronological arrangement because of their importance, but all materials received forthwith should follow the chronology which begins in box 28 (except those materials which are ongoing publications).

Lothar Tresp's service as executive secretary/treasurer and his position at the University of Georgia produced a somewhat U.Ga.-slanted archive for those years he served. These materials have been retained and arranged under a U.Ga. or Tresp heading, but their inclusion doesn't imply any greater a role for U.Ga. within the Council. The archives placement at U.Ga. simply facilitated the inclusion of more extensive materials from the "Tresp years."

Ms 2929 NATURAL HISTORY PRINT COLLECTION

Hargrett Rare Book and Manuscript Library
University of Georgia Libraries
Material in this collection are from several sources. Pierre-Joseph Redoute (1759-1840) was born in the Belgian Ardennes, the son, grandson, great-grandson and brother of artists. From the beginning, Redoute’s talents were recognized by distinguished men and women who took pleasure in forwarding his career. Heritier de Brutelle, one of the outstanding naturalists of his day, taught Redoute botany. Gerard van Spaendonck, Flower Painter to the King, taught him the technique of painting in watercolor on vellum.

Stipple engraving is particularly suited to reproducing botanical detail. This technique is one of engraving a copper plate with a dense grid of dots which can be modulated to convey delicate gradations of color. Because ink lies on the paper in miniscule dots, it does not obscure the ‘light’ of the white paper beneath the color. After the printing process, the prints were finished by hand in watercolor, so as to conform to the models Redoute provided.

Redoute had, as pupils or patrons, five queens and empresses of France, including Marie Antoinette, Josephine and Empress Marie-Louise. Despite many changes of regime in this turbulent epoch, he worked without interruption, eventually contributing to over fifty books on natural history and archeology.

Included in the collection are materials from Redoute: LES LILIACEES and LES ROSES, CHOIX DES PLUS BELLES FLEURS.

Other plates include 2 from John Gould; 2 plates from Maria Sybilla Merian.
Les Liliaceae records the plants of the lily family which Josephine collected for her gardens at Malmaison. Redoute’s small drawings, placed at the bottom of the illustrations, record the anatomical features of each species so that each flower could be identified with precision and cultivated to perfection. Redoute eventually produced 486 plates illustrating 476 different species. Staff botanists studied the plants and wrote the text. The name Les Liliaceae were in fact a much wider work that the title suggests for it illustrates plants from many other families of monocots. The Liliaceae themselves account for about half the species illustrated. What all these plants had in common was their resistance to preservation in herbaria, those collections of dried flowers used by botanists for protracted examination when a living plant was not available.

In the standard folio, only 200 sets of the edition were produced. The stipple engravings were by Bessin, Chapuy, Langlois and other - some 18 engravers in all.

After Les Liliacees, Redoute created Les Roses between 1817 and 1824. It became his most famous work and his last one. In these volumes, he described almost all of the important roses known to botany. Included were many of the key ancestors to our present-day flowers. Stipple engravings, colored by hand, published in Paris by Didot, 1817-24, text by Claude Antoine Thory.

DESCRIPTION:

Land grant, 1,000 acres to William Neil in Montgomery County, 1795.
Signed by George Mathews.
DESCRIPTION

Lewis L. Nettleton was a wood worker and binder of books from Orange, Connecticut. Orange was in the 1830's and 1840's a book making center.

The first workbook (1843-47) is from Connecticut and shows what wood working was done as well as books purchased by Nettleton. The book is small morrocco with his name on the cover. It probably is a sample of his work.

The second notebook (1847-52) includes work done in Sparta, Georgia and Augusta, Georgia. It lists books done for certain people along with the price charged and materials used.
New England Company (Boston, Mass.)
.25 linear ft.

The New England Company (Boston, Mass.) charter was granted by the Superior Court of Dade County, Georgia in November 1888 to develop iron, coal, and city properties in Alabama, Georgia, and Tennessee including property in New England City, Dade County, Georgia.

The collection consists of promotional materials relating to the New England Company's (Boston, Mass.) sale of land lots in New England City, Dade County, Georgia from 1889-1894. The materials include a plat map of New England City, blank forms for stock sales, meeting notices, as well as brochures, pamphlets, and flyers illustrating the New England Company's investment potential and mining plans for Alabama, Georgia, and Tennessee.

Description Located in the oversize manuscript drawers, this hand-drawn plat of the Eliza Newton Estate in Athens details the individual lots established when the property was subdivided. It adjoins Bloomfield's and Vonderette's land on the South, Watkinsville Road on the East, and essentially Pope Street on the West and Baxter Street on the North. The verso contains the plat of town lots, the property of J. Wilkerson, dated 1869 with the scale at 100 feet to one inch. Its northern boundary is the proposed Broad Street extension, with the proposed Oconee Avenue as its eastern and southern bounds.

Located in oversize.
Henry Newton, born in Athens, was licensed to the ministry of the Presbyterian Church in 1845 by the Hopewell (now Athens) Presbytery. He served in the Athens area until around 1897.

These reminiscences of early Athens are Rev. Newton's recollections of his childhood from 1830-1842.

Included in the collection is the original manuscript and a copy that was published in the Papers of the Athens Historical Society, volume 2, 1979.

.25 linear ft.
1 microfilm roll ; 35 mm.

John Newton (1732-1790), Baptist minister and physician, moved to Georgia in 1785.

The collection consists of a diary of Reverend John Newton from 1781-1790 (with gaps). The diary discusses mainly routine matters such as hunting, farming, and family health, and includes some information on Newton's services as a physician and a minister, first in the Carolinas and then in northeast Georgia. There is also some mention of Indian relations in Jefferson County, Georgia near the Ogeechee River. The collection also contains some loose material relating to Newton's estate and medical accounts (1808-1809) and remedies recorded by Dr. Moses Newton, John Newton's son.

Also available on microfilm.

Newton, John Hamlin, 1800-1889.
1 v.
Arranged in chronological order.

John Hamlin Newton, president of the Hart County Gold Mining Company (Hart County, Ga.) and planter, resided in Clarke County, Georgia.

The collection consists of an account book of John Hamlin Newton from 1855-1858 and 1867-1868. The early entries (1855-1858) pertain to the Hart County Gold Mining Company and include amounts paid to workers; expense accounts for workers containing their name, item purchased, and price; and charges for company supplies such as machinery, parts, or hardware. Also includes a running tally of the company's total expenses for 1855-1856. Entries for Newton's plantation, Latimer Place (1867-1868) primarily consist of laborers' accounts containing the date, their name, items purchased (mostly food stuffs), and price. Additional entries pertain to "plantation expenses chargeable to the hands" and lists of work to be done on the plantation.

PRELIMINARY DESCRIPTION

Autographed copy of printed poem (broadside) entitled "The Remaining Few" dedicated to Confederate Veterans.

SUBSEQUENT HISTORY
DESCRIPTION This small notebook contains the annotations of P. Northen listing accounts payable and amounts received, lists of supplies for Confederate army companies in the vicinity of Savannah and Augusta, travel expenses, and land transactions. Although by design sketchy and miscellaneous, the day book displays interesting aspects of the ordinary business activities during the Civil War period.
DESCRIPTION

William J. Northen was a long-time important political figure in the affairs of Georgia. From his post as president of the Georgia State Agricultural Society, he wielded great influence which carried him to election as governor of the state.

This letter, written while he was society president, dated 5 May 1890, is addressed to Charles Edgeworth Jones of Augusta, and discusses in some detail Northen's thoughts concerning his gubernatorial candidacy.
DESCRIPTION

These copies of letters were copied from the Augusta Chronicle by T. K. Oglesby for W. J. DeRenne. T. M. Norwood, a noted politician, published the letters under the name "Nemesis". They dealt with the administration of Governor Rufus B. Bulloch.

DESCRIPTION

This old cash journal, 1870-1883, deals with sales, prices and notes giving names of men in many Georgia towns and a few in South Carolina and Alabama who owned stores. The price of cotton, corn, wheat, rice, oats, potatoes, chickens, eggs, butter, etc., are listed. Farm equipment, including the sale of horses, the price of dried and uncured animal hides are very interesting. Also there are listed those men who owe money as well as the paid accounts. This journal lists freight charges for items sent by train. Some pages are torn out.
Old Athens Cemetery Foundation, Inc. papers, 1980-2002

1 lin ft.

The Old Athens Cemetery Foundation, Inc. was organized as a non-profit organization in 1981 to protect, preserve and maintain the oldest cemetery in Athens, on Jackson Street, University of Georgia campus. The foundation was the result of community concern about a possible parking deck being built on the site as well as the lack of interest by the university in its maintenance. The goals of the Foundation were met and the control of such activities was returned to the university in 2002.

The collection consists of the papers of the Foundation including minutes, members lists, publications, incorporations and agreements, photos and slides, newspaper clippings, descendants correspondence, general information concerning cemeteries and artifacts.

DESCRIPTION:

These papers consist of research notes, pictures, clippings, articles and correspondence of the late Dr. Clarke Olney of the English Department at the University of Georgia. The papers contain a wealth of research done by Dr. Olney for two books: Caroline Lamb, a Biography and "Dearest Lord: Caroline Norton's Letters to Lord Melbourne." Typescripts of both books are included; neither has been published. An article, "Caroline Norton to Lord Melbourne" from the Caroline Norton research, was published in Victorian Studies, March 1965. Papers from the research were read at SAMLA in 1954 and 1955. Glenarvon Revisited in 1954 and Caroline Norton's Letters to Melbourne in 1955.

Dr. Olney evidently intended to write a biography of Lord Melbourne, but on the publication by Lord David Cecil of The Young Melbourne in 1939 followed in 1954 by Lord M as Parts I and II of a full study called Melbourne, Dr. Olney turned to the "Carolines" in Lord Melbourne's life. There is research here for at least two books, and/or several articles, including pictures.

Owens, Justus Erwin, 1893-1918.
Justus Erwin Owens scrapbook, 1918.
1 v.

Justus Erwin Owens (1893-1918), U.S. Army soldier in the 326th Infantry, 82nd Division, during World War I. Owens was killed at the Battle of Argonne. Owens was a resident of Carrollton, Georgia.

The collection consists of a scrapbook containing information on the World War I service of Justus Erwin Owens in 1918. The scrapbook contains newspaper clippings, photographs, and some correspondence. The correspondence is between Owens and his family while he was training at Camp Gordon, while in France, and at the time of his death. Of particular interest is a letter in which Owens describes the Battle of St. Mihiel.
